SIX KILLED IN FACTORY BLAST

FATE OF HARBORS, RIVERS BILL HELD IN DOUBT

Fifty Homes Destroyed When New Tornado Hits Town

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

New York witnessed a very strange sight Wednesday afternoon.

* * * *

As a gigantic ocean liner left the pier, loaded with war mothers enroute to France to visit the graves of their sons. The American battle fleet majectically drew into the harbor.

* * * *

Such a contrast.

* * * *

On one side there were the hundreds of mothers, crying as they left their native sod, going to France, thousands of miles away to visit the last resting place of their sons, who, in the glory of their youth, left home more than 13 years ago, never to return again.

* * * *

On the other side was the great, grey warships, their armor gleaming, their huge guns capable of hurling death and destruction for miles, frowning at the sky.

* * * *

* * * *

Hundreds of mothers mourning their dead — thousands of sailors proud of their uniform —their youth.

* * * *

War is a terrible thing — but as long as there are ambitious nations, or ambitious rulers there will be war—and the slaughter of the innocents.

* * * *

Hundreds of American boys died in France in 1918 who should never have been sent to the front line trenches.

* * * *

Why were they sent? Because every man capable of carrying a gun was needed to stem the advance of that gigantic military machine — the magnificent German army.

* * * *

* * * *

It was a common occurrence at war-time camps of America to see a large shipment of recruits march into camp. They were lined up in companies. The commander would then request that every man who had had any military experience to raise his hand. And the few that had seen service with cadet corps or the national guard were made non-commissioned officers then and there.

* * * *

America had the men, the money and the material —but she did not have the trained disciplined men capable of leading others.

* * * *

And the leaders learned on the battlefields in France, that is — those who survived learned.

* * * *

The purpose of armies is to win wars — and to win wars they must be disciplined and trained to perfection.

FIRE ADDS TO HORROR OF DISASTER

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., May 8. —UP—Men and women employed in the smokehouse of Armour and company here, were preparing to leave their work late today when a low rumble, followed by a tremendous roar, rent the air, shattering the building and left the dying and injured in the wreckage.

The bodies of six dead were recovered as the night advanced, and order slowly issued from the confusion which followed the explosion. Eight persons were taken to the Missouri Methodist hospital seriously injured. Ten others remained unaccounted for.

Forty-six persons were in the plant when the blast occurred. Officials at first believed about 60 were trapped, but later learned that 20 of the workers had left for the day.

Fumes Ignited

The explosion was explained as caused by the ignition of fumes from an ammonia tank.

The five-story building was literally lifted into the air and let down again, burying debris in the earth and mangling the worker occupants.

A cloud of dust arose in gurgling spirals over the scene, then flames shot upward. Smoke obscured the scene as fire equipment from all over the city came to a stop. Lethal ammonia fumes made more hopeless the plight of those trapped.

Laundry Wrecked

Some of the toll was taken in the plant laundry building, which

STORE TO BE BUILT HERE

A permit for the construction of a store building on Macdonald avenue, between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets, was issued to Joe Perasso yesterday by City Building Inspector A. J. Hurley. The store will cost $2750, and the work will be done by Carl Overa.

George Udina will build an addition to his home on Twenty-second street between Pullman and Bissell avenues at a cost of $725.

It was also revealed that the cost of two garages which will be built by Frank Bailey will be $2,000, instead of $1,300 as was previously announced.

Church Group Names Board

Under supervision of the Richmond Council of Religious Education, a committee has been appointed to organize and conduct the annual Daily Vacation school here.

The school is being sponsored jointly by Richmond's Protestant churches and will hold session for six weeks following the closing of the Richmond public schools. All children are invited to attend, it was announced by George Harlow, president of the council.

The committee appointed to organize and conduct the school are: Rev. A. A. Pratt, chairman, Rev. H. I. Oberholtzer, vice-chairman; Rev. C. G Lindemann, Rev. K. B. Wallace, Rev. F. H. Prince, Mrs. H. Engelking, Miss L. C. Stoelmyer, Miss Nina Moody, Mrs. L. A. Viano, Mrs. Anna Lasater, Mrs. Wilfred Dimock and C. M. Bastin.

Bay Point Man Injured In Fall

George Brown of Bay Point is today recovering from injuries sustained when he fell 30 feet from a scaffolding at the Berkeley Steel company where he is employed, yesterday. He was treated at the Abbott Emergency hospital and later removed to the Hospital Richmond.

PERMIT FOR ELLIS SLOUGH WORK GRANTED BY ENGINEERS

Receiving no protests against the dredging of Ellis Slough, the district engineer's office in San Francisco has issued a permit for the project.

With the issuance of the permit, E. A. Hollman, declared yesterday that work on the dredging would start in the near future.

Hoffman, who is acting as engineer on the project on behalf of the property owners, said he had been notified by officials of the San Francisco Bridge company, that property owners had agreed to the terms of the contract for the work. The bids were accepted on April 16, but it was necessary for each property owner to sign a contract with the dredging firm individually.

The lowest of four bids was submitted by the San Francisco Bridge company, their offer being 15 1-2 cents per cubic yard, the lowest price over obtained on a dredging project in Richmond.

Hoffman said he would stake the channel out early in the next week and work would be started shortly afterward.

Based on the moving of 1,600,000 yards of material from the channel, the estimated cost of the project is $282,124. All of the material moved will be used to fill industrial property, and several hundred acres will be reclaimed for industrial purposes.

Hoffman estimated that it would take a year to complete the project, which includes dredging a channel 300 feet wide, 30 feet deep and 4000 feet long, with a turning basin at the westerly end.

Fliers Hurt In Air Crash

SACRAMENTO, May 8.— Two army pilots were perhaps fatally injured in a mimic war when their plane was caught in a powerful down wind above Mather field today and was crashed to the ground.

The men were: Lieut. Allen Chapman and Sgt. James Forshaw of the Ninty-first observation squadron.

The flyers were circling low over the field in their heavy Douglas observation ship when they were caught in the sudden gust of wind. The plane was completely wrecked in the crash.

A transport plane was pressed into service as an ambulance and flew the injured aviators to the Letterman hospital at San Francisco.

Examination revealed that Chapman was suffering from cuts and bruises on the head and face. Forshaw had a fractured nose and lacerated scalp.

Chapman's and Forsaw's squadron were practicing with machine guns at a low altitude when the accident occurred.

Additional Lot To Be Added To School Grounds

MARTINEZ, May 8.—A meeting of the electorate of the Alhambra school district has been called by the school's board of trustees for May 15, for the purpose of securing authorization to purchase a lot adjoining the high school shop building.

Trustees declare acquisition of the property is necessary to permit building of an addition to the shop structure to eliminate present congestion and also forestall the erection of private buildings beside the structure which might interfere with the lighting.

MARRIAGE LICENSE

Tsutomo Moramoto 28 of Sacramento, and Miti Oishi, 20 of Richmond, applied for a marriage license in Sacramento recently.

POPULATION PLACED AT 19,945

According to word received here today from Edward Dinkelspiel census supervisor for this district, Richmond's population totals 19,945.

Despite every effort to make Richmond's total pass the 20,000 mark, the count is still 55 short of that figure.

Although the figure is approximately 20 percent more than the census count of 1920, it is considerably short of estimates made by civic bodies, which had placed the population at between 24,000 and 30,000. These figures were based on water service, phone service, registered voters, school enrollment, etc.

The local census committee, consisting of City Manager J. A. McVittie, City Clerk A. C. Faris, Mayor A. L. Paulsen, G. E. Milnes and J. F. Galvin, was thanked for their efforts by Dinkelspiel.

G. N. ROOKER PROMOTED

Lee H. Newbert, manager of the Eastbay division of the Pacific Gas and Electric company, announced yesterday that George N. Rooker, Contra Costa county district manager for the company has been promoted to be manager of the newly created Berkeley-Richmond district.

Rooker will fill the vacancy created by the death of John Pape, Berkeley manager for several years.

In 1920, Rooker became Richmond manager for the Western States Gas and Electric company after he had spent several years with the Bridsby corporation. He continued in that position until 1927 when the Western States company merged with the P. G. and E. Rooker was then named district manager for Contra Costa county.

Rooker is prominent in local civic work, being a director of the chamber of commerce, a member of the Rotary club a member of the city planning commission, and a director of the Mechanics Bank of Richmond.

Jail Janitor's Charge Reduced

MARTINEZ, May 8.— Charges against James Carroll, 39, city hall janitor at Pittsburg, who was alleged to have been found in the woman's ward of the city prison while it was inhabited and without authority, have been reduced to malicious mischief.

It was indicted that Carroll would plead guilty to the lesser charge, which accuses him of breaking a lock on a safe cabinet.

Avon Oil Man To Go To Japan

MARTINEZ, May 8.—W. P. Hugo, superintendent of the Avon refinery of the Associated Oil company announced today that important changes would be made in the personnel of the refinery.

The changes will include sending D. D. McGregor to Japan where Associated is planning to construct a modern refinery in conjunction with a Japanese plant, and the appointment of T. O. Edwards Jr., to assistant general superintendent.

El Cerrito Man Dies At Hospital

Suffering a relapse, after an illness of 12 days, Carl O. Engberg, 52, 405 Richmond street El Cerrito died at a local hospital yesterday.

Engberg underwent an operation twelve days ago, and was apparently progressiing favorably when the relapse came.

Funeral arrangements are pending in the hands of the Ryan Funeral Home.

Engberg was a native of Sweden and has resided in El Cerrito the past 14 years. He was employed as a molder by the Pacific Gas and Electric company.

Deceased is survived by his widow, Louise, a daughter, Ruth, and a son Raymond, all of El Cerrito, and a father, mother and sister in Sweden.

Toss Of Coin Decides Suit

SAN FRANCISCO, May 8.—UP—A decision that vied with those of Solomon was made today by Superior Judge Thos. F. Graham, when he had to decide on a division of a piece of property left jointly in a will to Mrs. Mabel Grant and Mrs. Susan McDowell. As the women could not decide on which section of the property they wanted, the court ruled that they should toss a coin. Mrs. Grant won.

Grade Crossings Claim Another Victim At Mayfield

SAN FRANCISCO, May 8 —UP—Almost simultaneously with a meeting of traffic experts at the railroad commission office to determine means of averting grade crossing accidents, and while the funeral scrivces were being held for two high school girls whose car was struck by a train Tuesday, came news that S. S. Perry, 59, of Hayward, had been killed when a train struck his machine near Mayfield.

HEARINGS TO BE ENDED SOON

Whether or not the United States senate will pass the Rivers and Harbors bill is a matter of much doubt, according to dispatches received here last night from Washington, D. C.

Chairman Johnson, of the senate commerce committee, yesterday told members of the press that enactment of the bill at this session is doubtful.

Hearings on the controversial provisions of the measure will be concluded some time next week it was revealed.

Johnson declared, following an executive session of the senate commerce committee, that he could give no indication when the bill might be reported to the senate.

The bill was recently passed by the house and was sent to the senate for approval.

Aids Richmond

For more than a week hearings have been held on the bill, with U. S. engineers and others testifying.

Under the bill, a re-survey of the Richmond harbor and an appropriation of $313,000 to carry out the project are provided for.

If the bill were passed, Richmond would be relieved of the cost of maintaining the channel at a depth of 30 feet in the local harbor.

SENIORS TO HOLD PARTY

The graduating seniors of Richmond Union high school will be bidden farewell tonight at the semi-annual Seniors' Farwell dance to be held in the high school cafeteria.

The dance will start at eight o'clock. Music will be furnished by Gay Vargas' Red Peppers.

The cafeteria has been attractively decorated for the occasion with parchment light shades with black silhouettes on the lower borders.

Preparations for the dance have been carried out under the direction of Patricia McAndrews, social chairman of the Students' association.

Admission will be by Student Body cards only.

19 Dead In Bandit Battle

MANILA, P. I., May 8.—UP—The death toll from a clash between members of the constabulary, aided by troopers, and a band of outlaws from the Moro tribe on the Island of Mindanao had mounted to 19 today, according to reports received here.

Dispatches from Dansalan in the Lake Lanao region said Constable Liert and three troopers had been killed and 15 outlaws were dead. Twenty one members of the constabulary had been wounded; six of them seriously .

The fighting, which started when troopers tried to raid the outlaws' mountain stronghold and disarm them, was continuing, according to the reports.

Mrs. D. 'Arcy Asks Divorce

HOLLYWOOD, May 8.—UP—The second attempt of Mrs. Laura Guisti to obtain a divorce from Roy D'Arcy, screen villain, whom she once remarried, was assured today when the actors' attorneys announced he would not contest the suit.

As in her first divorce complaint, which brought severance of their martial bonds in 1928, Mrs. Guisti's latest suit blamed D'Arcy's artistic temperament for the collapse of their romance.

GIRL BRIDE WOUNDED BY MATE WHO KILLS SELF

SACRAMENTO, May 8.—Unable to effect a reconciliation with his 16-year old wife, Angelo Pellegrini, 20 year old Sacramento farmer, today shot and critically wounded the girl and then took his own life.

Pellegrini died almost instantly from four bullet she pumped into his chest.

The girl wife, Mrs. Nancy Pellegrini with a bullet wound in her chest, was late tonight fighting for her life in a Sacramento hospital. Physicians say she has only an outside chance for recovery.

Couple Parted

In a pocket of the youth's coat was found a note which read:

"I loved my wife. On October 25 we got married and on April 27 her father took her away from me. I went crazy because everybody was talking and I killed her because I loved her and didn't want to see her separate from me. Please put her in the same place with me."

Drew Gun

Mrs. Pellegrini told authorities her husband asked her again if she planned immediate action for annulment of their marriage.

Upon hearing an affirmative answer, the girl said, Pellegrini suddenly drew a pistol and after firing a shot into her breast, shot himself four times.

The girls' father told police he had taken the girl home at her request because the young couple had "failed to get along."

Moose Plans Big Picnic

Another picnic will be held at California park in Marin county Sept. 7 by the Richmond Moose lodge, according to an announcement at last night's meeting of the lodge in the Moose hall.

At this time Alacosta Legion of Oakland will be invited to attend and join in a frolic.

Carl Brailard, supervisor from national headquarters at Mooseheart Ill., was present at last night's meeting, and is working on the membership drive which will last six months. The first initiation since the inauguration of the drive will be held May 29.

A social night will be held in the Moose hall May 22 to which members of the Moose lodge, the Mooseheart Legion and their friends will be invited. A dinner will be served and dancing enjoyed.

S. P. Passenger Train Derailed

SAN FRANCISCO, May 8.—UP—A Southern Pacific passenger train was derailed 12 miles west of Stockton tonight, according to advices received by the news bureau of the railroad here.

The bureau said its information indicated no one was injured.

The train, known as the San Joaquin local, was at the east end of the San Joaquin bridge when the accident happened. The locomotive and a club car left the tracks, but remained upright.

It was estimated that traffic along the valley route would be delayed five or six hours.

Paroled Boys Face Theft Charges

PORTLAND, Ore., May 8.—UP—Jack Armstrong, 17, and Robert Lillie, 18, were held in jail today in connection with the asserted theft of a truck containing produce worth $2,000. Search was being conducted for Vernon Levy 15, whom the boys said accompanied them in the truck from Portland to Newport, and back to Villamia, where the machine was abandoned. Police said the boys are on parole from the state training school at Woodburn, Ore.

RAIN, HAIL FOLLOWS GALE

LINCOLN, Neb., May 8. —UP— A tornado which whirled out of the west struck the town of Hastings early this morning, damaging or destroying between 40 and 50 homes on the north side of the city and unroofing the Bible house of Hastings College, reports received here said.

Hail and rain followed the storm which was reported to have done damage in the neighborhood of $125,000. No fatalaties were reported, occupants of the houses narrowly escaping with their lives.

A hurricane which struck here near the center of the city, broke department store windows, whipped merchandise on display in the show windows into the street. The deluge of rain flooded the town. Electric power lines were shut down after the storm had damaged much of the wiring. The city will remain in darkness tonight, electric power company officials said.

The storm also was reported to have struck Minden, 50 mi. [illegible] the west and extended as far east as Harvard, 16 miles east of Hastings.

Traffic over the Burlington railway main line between Juanita and Hastings was stopped when the rails were submerged.

The same area was struck by a tornado early this week, resulting in one death and injuries to several. A week ago tonight a tornado swept through northwestern Nebraska, injuring upward of 100 persons and killing four.

MARTINEZ CITY MANAGER SEEN

MARTINEZ, May 8.—Plans for the adoption of the city manager form of government for Martinez, were presented at a meeting of the Martinez Chamber of Commerce today.

R. R. Borland and George Keller members of the chamber committee asked that a committee be appointed by Mayor R. E. Claeys to meet with the chamber committee and go into a detailed study of the project before action is taken by the city council. The committee was appointed from the council to meet with the chamber men May 20.

Borland presented figures today showing the advantages that Pittsburg, under the city manager form of government, has over Martinez, declaring a city the size of Martinez having a yearly revenue of $100,000 or more, could be much more easily and more satisfactorily run under the city manager plan.

McKinley Masons Confer Degree

First degree was conferred by Raymond Walker, junior warden of the McKinley Masonic lodge at a meeting in the Masonic hall last night.

During the meeting, which was under the direction of A. C. Curtis, worshipful master, it was announced that a second degree would be conferred next Thursday night.

Taylor "Murderer" Adjudged Insane

EL CENTRO, May 8. — UP — Russi Rinaldo, whose recent confession to the William Desmond Taylor murder was found to be untrue, was adjudged insane here today and ordered committed to the Patton asylum.

Rinaldo told Los Angeles police two weeks ago, that he shot Taylor, noted Hollywood screen director, eight years ago. Investigation showed that Rinaldo's story was impossible and he was ordered held as a psychopathic.

SPORTS

BARREL HOUSE NINE WINS OVER ALL STANDARD TEAM

Just like old times again—fans. The Barrel House, a shade of that old famous Barrel House team that used to walk home every year with the Standard Oil pennant in its grasp—took its first league victory yesterday afternoon from the All Standard team by a score of 7 to 1 at the First street field.

The victory brought back to the memories of many those exciting games that the Barrel House won years ago.

New Faces

There were new faces in the line-up of both teams—but there was a sprinkling of veterans in the field to bring back those days of long ago when the pride of the Standard Oil league would meet the El Segundo team for the mythical title.

Yea, them were the days.

There was Artie Schimpff at second base for the Barrel House—still hopping around just as fast as ever. Artie made a hit the first time up and scored a run.

And then there was Fitzgerald out in right field. Seems that the Barrel House wouldn't be the Barrel House without Artie or Fitz—just like the Refinery wouldn't be the Refinery without Chick Autry on the keystone sack.

New Players

And the All Standards didn't look very familiar from the press box. There was Cullers—who doesn't remember him? And then there's Muth and Johnny Hutton.

What we missed more than anything else was Jack Snavely out in center field with his red undershirt sleeves flowing in the sun.

And then, we missed that foghorn voice from the left field bleachers who always gave vent to his feelings by yelling in a whisper that could be heard in San Francisco:

Spike There

"Spike, you're louzeeee!"

But Spike was there—yessir—Spike Elder himself, in person, playing the role of the man in the iron mask. And Spike has added a number of pounds. Spike, as usual took his razzing like a gentleman, a scholar, and a good newspaperman.

And there was the usual number of stray dogs on the field. The 1st Street ball park should prove a happy hunting grounds for Pound master Frank Meader.

Good Ball

And George Shawl was in the press box — jotting down his mystic figures in his score book—so all was well.

The Barrel House played headsup ball all the way through and continually kept the All Standards guessing with their stolen bases and Doyle Taylor's chucking.

Taylor pitched a great game in spite of the razzing of the irrepressible "Swede" Jensen. He was nicked for only three hits, and succeeded in fanning 12 hefty All-Standards.

James started for the All Standards, but was replaced by Murphy in the fifth canto after he allowed seven hits. He fanned six Barrel House athletes. Murphy allowed but three singles and sent one opponent back to the bench hitless.

Lais Lauded

Lais presented the record crowd with two of the greatest thrills of the game when he snatched the ball out of the ozone, thereby preventing two possible doubles.

Vianni and Yore were the only aspiring sluggers to bag doubles yesterday. Charley Matteri had a big day at the plate, getting three out of four.

Barrel House Scores

The Barrel House scored their first runs in the first inning, collecting four of them. Matteri, the first man up singled. Artie Schimpff followed with another single and Vianni brought in Matteri and Schimpff with a double. Fitzgerald drew a walk. Whetzler fanned but Moitoza came through in the pinch with a double that brought in Viano and Fitzgerald.

Yore scored one in the first inning for the All Standards. He drew a walk and crossed the plate when Artie Schimpff muffed Culler's drive.

Two more runs were scored by the Barrel House in the second—Matteri, and Viano crossing the plate.

The final run for the Barrel House was scored by Matteri, who got a hit and was brought home by Kirkwood's double in the third.

HUDKINS LADS TAKE UP POLO

LOS ANGELES, May 8.—UP—What will those Hudkins boys be up to next?

Not content to seek boxing honors and gold in the prize ring by exploiting Ace, the fighting members of the family, the Hudkins clan recently startled Los Angeles sportdom by announcing that they had formed a polo team.

There are just enough of the Hudkins brothers to constitute a polo team and, according to Clyde the spokesman, he will play No. 1 position, Art will play No. 2 Ace No. 3 and Abe No. 4.

The Hudkinses are riding under the colors of the Hollywood Polo and Hunt club, and while they have not figured out their goal handicap as yet they declare they are ready to meet any polo team with the exception of Tommy Hitchcock's quartet and the Four Horsemen from the Argentine.

If, however, the Hudkinses should happen to win a game or two there is no doubt but that they will claim the world's championship. The Hudkins boys never are bashful about claiming anything.

While Clyde declares that the advent of the clan into the polo tanbark is designed for the two-fold purpose of "giving Abe's public a new treat and raising the Hudkins name a bit higher in the blue book of American pugilistic circles," there are Doubting Thomases who are inclined to believe that the brothers have other sinister motives.

Some believe they seek to bring the Hollywood Polo and Hunt club into the limelight by crowding the sport pages with thrilling accounts of the Hudkins brothers in pursuit of the elusive chukker.

Clyde, the fast talker, declares that the clan now possesses a string of 32 polo ponies of proven worth an the field of battle. He also avers that the brothers are very superior horsemen and that he cannot conceive of any of them "coming a cropper" in the Prince of Wales style.

Only one thing connectd with polo has dampened the ardor of the Hudkinses so far. They read in the papers of the success of the famous Argentine team and noted with interest that the South Americans were going to auction off some of their ponies.

Clyde, as usual, took the family purse and went to the sale, intending to bring home a few of the steeds to bolster the Hudkins stable.

Only the strongest of hearts prevented Clyde from swooning when the first pony trotted into the arena brought an initial bid of $2000. Clyde, it seems, had been about to start things off by bidding $75.

The budding poloist watched two or three ponies sell for sums between $3000 and $5000, then pulled his hat down over his face and sidled toward the exit.

"Holy smoke," he said later to a friend, "they paid $3000 for one of them horses. But they didn't catch this guy for a sucker. No sir! Not while you can buy 25 horses back in Nebraska for $3000."

Trophies For Golf Matches On Display

Trophies to be awarded winners of the annual golf tournament of the Richmond lodge of Elks have been placed on display at the club rooms on Tenth street. Six of the prizes have been secured, none of which costs under $15.

The trophies are: Two silver water pitchers, one silver fruit bowl, one electric clock, one silver ice recepticle and one silver candy tray.

The second round of the tournament will be played this week-end.

Angels Defeat Missions While Sacs Beat Oaks

SAN FRANCISCO, May 8.—UP—The Los Angeles Angels and Sacramento Senators kept up their hard race for leadership of the Pacific Coast league today, each club winning by a comfortable margin.

Bunching eight of their 11 hits, the Angels beat the San Francisco Missions, 4 to 0, and remained in first place. Delaney, Los Angeles pitcher, allowed six scattered hits to gain distinction for the shut out.

With two big innings, in each of which they scored three runs, the Senators trounced Oakland, 8 to 2.

The San Francisco Seals went into third place, succeeding the Oaks to that position, by beating Hollywood, 5 to 2. They gained an early lead that was never overcome.

Seattle won both games of a double header with Portland, 7 to 5 in the first and 7to 2 in the second, which lasted 13 innings. Hubbell of Seattle and Mays of Portland went the whole route in the second game, but Mays weakened in the first of the thirteenth to let five runs in.

Stribling Wins In London Bout

LONIDON, May 8.—UP—W. L. Stribling, American heavyweight, knocked out Hans Schonrath, official heavyweight champion of Germany in the second round of a scheduled 10 round bout at Albert hall tonight. The referee halted the contest to save the German from further punisment.

Stribling's next bout will be with Pierre Charlef, European heavyweight champion, at Paris, May 22. He is also under contract to meet Phil Scott at London—if the British heavyweight will return to the ring.

HEIRESS WILL CONTINUE TO PLAY GOLF

SANTA CRUZ, May 8.—UP—Although richer by two and one-half million dollars, Miss Marion Hillins, former women's national golf champion, is continuing her job of work, which is the laying out of golf courses.

It became known today that Miss Hollins secured $2,500,000 of the $10,500,000 fortune realized Oil corporation the other day to by those who sold the Kettleman the Honolulu Consolidated Oil company, and the Standard Oil company, of California.

But the money will make no difference to Miss Hollins, according to her friends. She is used to having money — not the kind that some one gives away — but money earned by physical exertion and thinking ability.

Laying out golf courses is a part of the real estate activity of Miss Hollins, a business she entered six years ago at Pebble Beach, California.

Just now Miss Hollins is in Santa Cruz, supervising the laying out of the Pasa Tiempa golf course, the property of an exclusive local club.

Curiously enough, the name of this golf course, translated, means "passing the time," and that, one may assume, is what Miss Hollins is doing, because she hardly will need the money to be paid here when the work is finished.

The story of Miss Hollins' career is a dramatic recital of a brave girl, entering the whirlpool of competitive business and winning her way to the top, unaided.

During the hectic days of the world war, say her friends, the father of Miss Hollins lost his fortune and the young girl then started out to retrieve it, sacrificing her love for sports in order to do so.

It was six years ago that Miss Hollins and her mother came from New York, where her father had been a banker, and started in the real estate business on a small scale.

Many of the beautiful homes in Monterey, Carmel-by-the-Sea, and Pebble Beach sections, came into being as a result of Hollins subdivisions.

Seeking opportunity where her men competitors could not, Miss Hollins looked toward golf—the sport she loved—and started the Cypress Point golf course, and later organized and drove thru to completion, the first woman's golf course. It was located on Long Island, and was named the International Women's golf course.

The family fortune was regained solely by the real estate selling ability of Miss Hollins. Her venture into the oil business was a side issue, but was based on sound thought and a never-dying faith in the brown hills of central California, where the rich Kettleman hills field spurts forth its "black gold."

The part Miss Hollins played in making the Kettleman Oil company a success, was not one of an idle bystander with a few dollars invested. She was a friend when the company needed friends and supporters.

The story is that the Madland Oil company was unable to interest big ocmpanies to drill in the Kettleman Hills region and Miss Hollins went to New York and by her sales ability interested New York financiers and as a result the Kettleman Oil company was formed.

GIANTS, YANKS WIN IN BIG LEAGUES

(By UNITED PRESS)

American League

The Philadelphia Athletics went into the undisputed leadership of the American league Thursday by defeating the St. Louis Browns, 7-3, while Cleveland was rained out at New York.

Bill Shores held the Browns to four hits, but one of them was a home run by Manush with a runner on base. Jimmy Foxx hit his fifth homer of the season with two mates on base, and Dykes hit another with the bases empty.

Sam Jones won his third game of the season, Washington beating Detroit, 8 to 5. Sam Rice, Washington outfielder, ran his hitting streak to 19 straight.

Jack Russell pitched the Boston Red Sox to a 3 to 1 victory over the Chicago White Sox. Tom Oliver, Red Sox center fielder, hit in his 17th consecutive game.

National League

The New York Giants maintained their National league lead by beating Pittsburgh 13 to 10 in ten innings, and winning their first series with a western club, three games to one.

After the Pirates had tied the score with two runs in the ninth, the Giants scored three runs on Lindstrom's single, Ott's walk, Grantham's error, Reese's single and Leach's triple.

Home runs by Bell, Cuyler and Wilson enabled the Chicago Cubs to beat Brooklyn 7 to 4, and stay at the Giant's heels in second place. Cuyler's homer came with two men on base. Wilson's was his sixth of the season.

Cincinnati moved into a tie with Brooklyn for fourth place by defeating the Boston Braves 2-1. After failing to get a man to third until the eighth inning, the Reds made two runs on a scratch single, a walk and three sacrifices. Cunningham and Spohrer, Boston battery, were ejected by Umpire McGrew, for protesting the decision at the plate on the winning run.

Bill Hallahan won his fourth game of the season for the St. Louis Cardinals from the Phillies 6 to 5. He allowed but 4 hits and fanned 8. Klein hit home run No. 6, tying him with Hack Wilson for the National league lead.

Odd Fellows To Meet Elks Nine

The Odd Fellows, already with one victory chalked up so far this year in the Twilight league competition, will meet the Richmond Elks Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock on the First street diamond.

Strenuous competition is guaranteed by both teams, and while the Elks will be playing in their first contest of the season they are confident of victory.

Kamb will pitch for the Odd Fellows and Gualdoni will be behind the plate.

Dutch Kogler will probably hurl for the Elks.

HIGH NINE IN WIN OVER CADETS

Sailing over the bounding wave is a grand and glorious feeling, especially after you have won a ball game. This feeling of gladness was prevalent in great quantities among the members of the Richmond Union high school varsity baseball team last night as they returned to Richmond from San Rafael after trimming the San Rafael Military Academy squad 7 to 0.

And it's even a more grand and glorious feeling when your defeated opponents are champions of the state private schools baseball competition.

And its a still more grand and glorious feeling when your final victory of the season presents you with a "letter" for supremacy in sports.

So, members of the Richmond Union high school faculty, don't blame the aspiring baseball players in your class if they happen to use a bit of baseball slang in their English recitations today. No one could blame them under the circumstances.

The Richmond boys showed a wide margin of superiority over the Cadets in yesterday's battle.

Richmond yesterday probably played the best ball that it has played this season. Johnny Babich made a sensational job of chucking for the local squad, fanning 16 uniformed boys, and allowing but five hits. Valcone occupied the mound for the San Rafael men and allowed 11 hits.

Richmond started the scoring yesterday in the first inning when Rosano and Viano trotted homeward. San Miguel romped home in the third to add one more tally to the growing Richmond total. San Miguel, Rosano, and Viano all collected runs for Richmond in the fifth inning, and Viano concluded the scoring with one more counter in the ninth. Three baggers were gained by Babich and Flitter. Viano also starred with four hits out of five chances. Rosano made three for four.

The Richmond Union high school varsity concluded its 1930 season yesterday. It has finished up the year in fine style, winning six out of its last eight games.

The Richmond squad lost the first three of its Alameda County Athletic league contests. They suddenly showed a gleam of talent toward the middle of the league season by trouncing the league-winning Alamedans, and from that time on, they have been playing first class baseball.

NANCY CARROLL IN SOUTH SEAS

After twelve pictures, which include some of Paramount's biggest hits, Nancy Carroll, red-headed dancing, singing, screen player, will be seen at the Fox California theatre tomorrow only in her first starring picture "Dangerous Paradise." It is a gripping story of South Sea love and adventure,—from incidents in a novel by Joseph Conrad.

Miss Carroll followed a meteoric stage career with a swift rise to screen prominence. Her picture hits include "Abie's Irish Rose," "The Shopworn Angel," "The Wolf of Wall Street", "Close Harmony" "The Dane of Life" and "Illusion." Her fan mail is exceeded in volume only by that of Clara Bow and Charles (Buddy) Rogers. She is beautiful. She can act. She can sing. She can dance. And she has "star" personality.

As a member of an all-girl orchestra, Miss Carroll displays new talent in "Dangerous Paradise." She plays the violin. Menaced by the proprietor of a South Seas hotel in which the orchestra plays Nancy flees to a tiny island where Richard Arlen, disappointed in love and embittered against all women, lives alone. She is interested in Arlen, but his cold aloofness makes her furious. However, when three brutal neer-do-wells from the hotel follow her to the island, planning to rob and kill, her love triumphs in a breath-taking climax filled with action and suspense.

In addition to Arlen, who has the leading male role, Warner Oland, popular portrayer of Max Rohmer's Dr. Fu Manchu, Gustav von Seyfferitz, Francis McDonald, and an all star cast, support Miss Carroll. William Wellman, director of the famous "Wings" made the picture. New and unusual backgrounds, and a really enthralling action - romance, make this new world show picture an exceptional entertainment. On the same bill is an all-talking comedy, "His Operation."

LAVINE CASE ATTORNEY DIES

LOS ANGELES, May 8.—UP—While a jury still was deliberating over his last fiery address, funeral arrangements were being made here tonight for Edward J. Dennison, 59, veteran prosecutor of the district attorenys' office.

He died early today of heart disease just a few hours after he spectacularly demanded the conviction of Morris Lavine and Miss Leontine Johnson, accused of extortion in the Julian Petroleum case.

The prosecutor will never know the result of his last case for the jury still was out when death came.

The first indication of his illness came when he was delivering the state's final argument yesterday. Ordinarily tireless, he asked the court for a recess while he was yet in the middle of his address.

"I'm all in," he told his wife when he went to bed last night. He awakened her early this morning but before she could summon a physician he died.

Dennison was born in Michigan in 1871 and came here in 1911. He had been associated with the district attorney's office almost continuously since that time.

Funeral services probably will be held Saturday.

Cow Has Third Set Of Twins

TIPTON, May 8.—UP—Seldom does a cow bear more than one calf at a time, according to dairymen. S. E. Borror & Son, Holstein breeders here, have a pure bred cow named Aralia Mead that now has her third consecutive set of twin calves.

The cow in question has produced seven calves since August, 1926, her owners say. Following her first calf in that month, twins came in December, 1927, with another set of twins arriving in January, 1929 and a third set this month.

TRAINING BOYS FOR AERIAL WARFARE

SAN FRANCISCO, May 8.—UP—Instruction in anti-aircrait operation is to be part of the "curriculum" at the citizens' military training camp at Fort MacArthur, to be held this summer, according to headquarters of the Ninth corps area at the Presidio a. San Francisco.

The 63rd anti-aircraft regiment has been recently ordered to the fort, and instruction in this field will be given citizens enrolled there.

Applications for enrollment in the various training camps far exceeds the number received last year, army headquarters reports.

Although camps do not open for some months, several California counties have filled their quotas and others are being rapidly filled.

Camps will be held in California at the following places:

Presidio at Monterey for cavalry and field artillery, opening July 5; Del Monte for basic infantry, July 5; Fort MacArthur for coast artillery, July 2, and Fort Winifield Scott coast artillery, June 21.

Young men between the ages of 17 and 31 are eligible to attend, the age limits for first year training being 17 to 24.

All expenses are paid by the government.

"Apply early," is the caution of the corps headquarters, for camp quarters are limited and "first come first served" is the rule.

Applications for Fort MacArthur should be sent to the commanding officer, Fort McArthur, San Pedro, Cal., and those for other camps to the commanding general, 9th corps area, Presidio of San Francisco.

Scarface Capone Indignant When Placed In Jail

MIAMI, Fla., May 8.—UP—Scarface Al Capone, Chicago's roving gang leader, was back in jail for a short time tonight, less than two months after he completed a prison term in Philadelphia for carrying concealed weapons.

Alphonse and three of his henchmen, including his brother, John, were taken into custody as they drove a large sedan along Biscayne boulevard here today. They were lodged in the city jail for investigation.

Capone was booked as "an undesirable citizen walking the streets of Miami" according to the police department and Mayor Reeder.

Capone and his gang were released after more than an hour's angry argument, most of it from behind cell bars. Traffic Director R. S. McCreary, who ordered the release, warned them they would be arrested if they appeared on the streets of the city.

The gang leader showed none of the fatalistic calm and agreeable attitude which marked his arrest in Philadelphia. He swore furiously when taken to jail and angrily asserted Former Governor James M. Cox, of Ohio, publisher of the Miami Daily News, was responsible for his plight.

The other men arrested gave their names as Albert Drignano, 38, of Illinois, and Nick Circulee, of Palm Island.

Mayor Reeder declared his government had adopted Chicago's policy toward Capone and that the Chicagoan would be liable to arrest every time he is seen on the streets of Miami.

Roundup Held As Bunnies Escape

TULARE, May 8.—UP— A. J. Elliott, manager of the Tulare coursing park, is a man of resource and energy.

When some prankster freed 128 out of 130 rabbits intended as the inspiration for the whippet races here, Elliott solved his problem in short order.

He organized an impromptu rabbit drive, went out into the country with his "posse," and within a short time had captured 55 jackrabbits.

PAINFUL CORNS

Loosen—Lift Out

A little known Japanese herb, the discovery of an eminent German scientist (Dr. Stickel) instantly soothes the corn, callous or wart, then loosens it so that shortly you can lift it right out. This new discovery called "Corn Fly" excites the white blood corpuscles to action and granulates the corn at its root so that it drops out and leaves no trace of scar or soreness.

You will also find "Corn Fly Foot Bath Powder" a boon for sore, tired or perspiring feet.

"Corn Fly" for corns, 35c, "Corn Fly Foot Bath Powder" 25c, and "Corn Fly Bunion Remedy" 50c, (all three—$1.10 value—for $1.00), are sold under a positive money-back guarantee by Hi-Gene Co., Newark, N. J., or local druggist.

Drought Causes Sheep Problem

HOGERMAN, Ida., May 8.—UP—Extreme dryness of the Idaho desert country west of Hagerman has necessitated the watering of sheep "by hand." Sheepmen have been forced to haul water as far as 30 miles to keep their flocks alive. Numerous small streams are dry, and moisture has disappeared from the usual desert water holes.

This has been one of the dryest seasons ever experienced in the region.

Here's Real Relief From Rheumatic Pains And Agony

IN 24 TO 48 HOURS YOU GET REST AND COMFORT AGAIN.

Torturing pains—the kind that pierce and burn and never seem to let up—that rob a man of his sleep—that make him just a bag of nerves and all worn out.

Those are the pains that dope and coal tar products can only partially relieve.

The safest and most efficient way to get rid of these persistent, nerve-racking pains is to get a bottle of ALLENRU SPECIAL FORMULA NO. 2. Be sure you get NO. 2, which comes in capsule form. Take these little dark green capsules as directed and in about 24 hours you should be able to notice that they have considerably reduced those severe, torturing pains that have caused you so many sleepless nights. Continue taking them for two or three days more and thus prevent an early return of the torture.

La Moine Drug Co. says these little wonder-working capsules must banish all pain and torture in 5 days or money cheerfully refunded.

WESTERN FILM ENDS RUN TONIGHT

"The Light of Western Stars" romped into the Fox-California theater last night for its two day run and roped the audience heart and soul with its spectacular outdoor scenes, its heart throbbing romance, its rollicking humor and its great human thrills. It's Zane Grey as he has never been seen on the screen before—now his he-man heroes talk.

Richard Arlen has his second western role as Dick Bailey, the ranch foreman, whose swaggering proposal of marriage incurs the hate of Mary Brian. Awakened to real love, he works to offset his first bad impression, saves the girl from the sinister plans of Fred Kohler, and brings everything to a thrilling and happy ending. Miss Brian, playing opposite Arlen, is even better in this characterization than she was in "The Virginian" and the picture, as a whole, is just as spectacular, just as grand, as was that rousing entertainment.

A gigantic stampede of wild horses is the chief spectacle of the production. Hundreds of real "cayuses" are shown in a sweeping dash on the plains, with the cowboys risking their lives to stem the living tide. Scenes in the West during the last stand of banded outlawry against encroaching civilization are faithfully and beautifully pictured.

Harry Green's comedy dialect is convulsing in this outdoor setting. As a cowboy, Harry is funnier than he was as the "Kibitzer." And William Le Marie, garrulous comedian of "Only the Brave" has a bigger and more rib-tickling role in "The Light of Western Stars." Regis Toomey of "Alibi" and "Street of Chance" fame has an important supporting part.

Also on the program is a talking comedy entitled, "The Wife's Birthday."

Forests Desired As Windbreaks

TWIN FALLS, Idaho., May 8.—UP—In an effort to form windbreaks to protect their crops, numerous farmers in Twin Falls county have launched plans to inaugurate a "farm foresting" movement. Thousands of trees will be set out in open stretches where wind ordinarily raises havoc with crops.

HOOVER HIT BY SOLON IN TALK

WASHINGTON, May 8. —UP — President Hoover and his associates have so misled the country with "Pollyanna" statements regarding business conditions that the country no longer accepts administration utterances on this subjects as valid, Senator Joseph T. Robinson, democratic leader of the senate declared today.

This statement by the ranking democrat in the senate, just returned as minority member of the President's delegation to the London arms conference, was issued through the Demoacratc National committee headquarters here. It marks apparently the beginning of an attempt in Democratic quarters to turn a sharp light of criticism on the President's handling of the economic situation.

The White House declined to comment on Robinson's statement, though some close friends of the President expressed surprise that he should issue such an attack at this time. It was said, however, that the fact that it came through Democratic National headquarters might provide the explanation.

Cites Crash

It was issued exactly 60 days after Mr. Hoover had predicted on March 8, that the worst of the market crash was over.

"The sixty day period expired yesterday, and the price of a great number of leading securities and commodities is lower than ever and the unemployment situation is steadily becoming worse," Robinson said.

He said that a week ago, the President addressing the United States Chamber of Commerce, stated the business slump was almost over.

But, the next day the stock market crashed again, carrying prices down to the levels of last November.

"The President, of course, did not bring about the panic" Robinson continued, "but it should not be forgotten that he asked his election on the ground that it was the only way to continue prosperity in this country."

No Warning.

Robinson said though Mr. Hoover, as secretary of commerce, presumably had his fingers on the nation's economic pulse, he issued no warning of the catastrophe.

"Since the panic which began last November," Robinson said, "conditions have grown steadily worse, despite the pollyanna statements of the administration and the misleading reports of some of its members, notably James J. Davis, secretary of labor. Mr. Davis' figures on unemployment have been so absolutely wrong that the country has lost faith, and now accepts no administration declarations as valid.

"However blameless the President may be for the initial panic, it is most unfortunate that added disappointment should have come from his persistent coloring of real conditions. The people have a right to expect the truth. They are not children to be lulled by constant assertions which are proved false by every day's market.

"They have a right to think, when from the head of the government there comes a statement backed by impressive statistics, that the ebb is over and the tides of prosperity are again flowing, and that they can rely upon it."

L. A. Families Cost $3004.66 Records Show

LOS ANGELES, May 8.—UP—The annual cost of maintaining a family of five in Los Angeles in the minimum standard of comfort and decency, has been set at $3,004.66 by Dr. Earle Fiske Young, director of the sociological research laboratories of the University of Southern California.

The budget estimate, compiled by the student, is for the family of the skilled worker, and was contained in a summary of social data on the Los Angeles area.

Dairy products form the largest item in the $734 which Dr. Young set aside for food. This class cost $169.37 at city prices. Dr. Young allotted $119.20 for meat on the family diet.

Rent, set at $512.64, and clothing at $603.13, were the other major items on the budget. The remainder of the budget was divided between 11 items, including insurance, recreation and savings.

In another budget, estimating the living costs of a man working at ordinary labor and providing food, clothing and shelter for four. Dr. Young estimated the monthly cost for food to be $43.98 and the monthly total for all expenses, including a $30 rent item to be $122.13.

WHIM SLAYER EXECUTED IN CHAIR

CHICAGO, May 8.—UP—August Vogel, 27 year old bandit, who described himself as a "gin soaked kid trying to te'l the world to go to hell" paid with his life in the electric chair at 1:11 a. m. today for the "whim" slaying of Lyle Perrenoud, salesman.

Vogel's crime was denounced by the state as one of the most wanton on record while on a "whoopee" party tour with two girls and another young man, all well filled with gin, Vogel's automobile was scraped by the fender of Perrenoud's car.

With a gun, Vogel forced Perenoud to the curb and ordered Mrs. Ferenoud and other occupants of the machine to get out, When the driver stepped out he was shot dead.

Vogel escaped, was captured later in Ohio and pleaded guilty but was sentenced to the chair. He excused his act by saying:

"I was born bragging. I never had a chance. I saw life moving by me. I tried to get something out of it before it was too late. But it costs more to have a good time than a fellow can make. So I got a gun and drank lots of gin. I know what they said I did, but I didn't know what I was doing. You can't drink that stuff."

Vogel was strapped in the chair at one minute after one a .m. and the current applied a minute later. When he was examined at 1:05 he was found to be still alive and the current increased 700 volts, was shot through his body a second time. He was finally pronounced dea dat 1:11 a. m.

SHULER PAL FINED DOLLAR

LOS ANGELES, May 8.—UP—Te Rev. E. H. Wall, who assists the Rev. R. B. "Bob" Shuler, broadcasting pastor, serving a 20-day sentence for contempt of court, in affairs other than his radio garrulity, was fined $1 today, also for contempt.

Superior Judge Clair S. Tappaan found the white-haired assistant guilty of contempt charges brought by attorneys of the Los Angeles Bar association, a'so plaintiff in the Shuler case, but the pastor did not have to pay the $1.

Testimony was brief at the trial today. It set forth that the Rev. Wall was cited because of a letter he sent to a Superior court judge relative to the case of William Russel', held on a grand theft charge, while the case was pending.

The Rev. Wall's case had no connection with the radio criticism of conduct of Julian Petroleum corporation trials which landed his ecclestiastical superior in jail.

NEW INDUSTRY IN STATE STARTED

LOS ANGELES, May 8.—UP— A novel industry, which warms odd spots of the world, has started here.

Built about the idea that deep-sea divers, alpine climbers and aviators would be more comfortable surrounded by a pleasant warmth, Dr. B. R. Charles, physician, inventor and tailor-extraordinary, has attracted a distinguished clientele.

The most recent notables to stand under the measure of the doctor-tailor's tape were Colonel and Anne Morrow Lindbergh, for whom Charles made special electrically-heated suits.

And now Charles has turned his attention to deep-sea divers. He read a news account of a diver freezing to death last winter and decided something ought to be done about it.

Charles' diving suit will produce a heat up to 150 degrees and he was sorry that he didn't have it ready to offer the bride and groom in the under-water marriage ceremony performed here in connection with the Los Angeles boat show.

Catering to the whims of people who want to be warmed up, explorers, flyers and others, has led Charles to many interesting experiments and incidents.

The other day a man who likes to get up in the wee, small hours of the morning and read, had Charles make him an electrically heated bathrobe and heated slippers to match.

He has made baby blankets, bed blankets, slippers, belts and heating pads.

Charles just came into the novel end of his profession after devoting nearly a lifetime to the perfection of devices for the manufacture of therapeutic goods for use in hospitals for the treatment of the ill.

The growing popularity of aviation and the modernizing of exploration has brought demands for specialized suits, many of which Charles has made.

Supreme Court Deadlocked On Pantages Case

SAN FRANCISCO, May 8.—UP—The State Supreme Court has become deadlocked, three to three, with one justice voluntarily disqualifying himself, on the question of whether Alexander Pantages, millionaire showman, should be granted freedom from jail on bail pending an appeal, it was revealed here late today.

Pantages was convicted on a charge of attacking Eunice Pringle 17 year old dancer, and has asked the appellate court to set the verdict aside.

The Supreme Court's even division was disclosed by B. Grant Taylor, clerk of the court. He sent telegrams to the district attorney's office at Los Angeles and attorneys for Pantages, which read:

"In the application of Pantages, Justice John S. Tylor, deeming himself disqualified, will not participate. The court is unable to agree and unless counsel for the parties stipulate to set aside the submission and put the matter on the Los Angeles calendar."

Justice Tyler, who is presiding justice of the district court of appeal, explained tonight why he felt he was disqualified from giving an opinion on the case. He was drafted to the Supreme Court to take the place of Justice William H. Langdon, who was ill, and went to Sacramento to hear arguments on Pantages' appeal for liberty on bail.

"After returning here my brother Russel P. Tyler, San Francisco lawyer informed me that a son of Pantages had consulted him about four months ago while one of the Pantages' proceedings was not retain nor was he paid anything but I felt I should disqualify myself."

Providing the district attorney's office and attorneys for Pantages agree to immediate appointment of another justice a decision can probably be made soon, Otherwise all arguments will have to be given again before the court in Los Angeles, Justice Tyler not sitting on the bench.

Pioneer Makes True Prediction

MONTESANO, Wash., May 8.—UP —"We must act now. You can never tell how long you will live," John R. Craig, pioneer Grape Harbor Granger, said at a meeting here recenty.

Five minutes later Craig lay dead the victim of a heart attack. He was 78 years old. He had been active in Grange work and it was after he had delivered an address asking support for a problem that he fell dead.

Ninety Days Not Three Months In Divorce Court

RENO Nev., May 8.—UP—Frank Kline, a Chicago police officer, learned that 90 days is not three months.

Applying for a divorce after residing in Nevada for 90 days Mrs. Kline objected delaying the trial.

When Mrs. Kline observed that Kline was a day short in his residential requirements Judge T. F. Moran threw the case out of court for lack of jurisdiction.

RICHMOND MEN AT ROTARY CONCLAVE

Among the 3000 members of the 156 Rotary clubs of Ca'fioria, Nevada and Hawaii who yesterday opened the 15th annual convention in Oakland, were nearly 25 members from the Richmond Rotary club.

As the first session of the convention opened, it became apparent that a hotly contested election would be held to determine the next district governor to succeed Harvey B. Lyon of Oakland.

The first session of the two day conclave was held at the Oakland muncipal auditorium and opened at 9 o'clock yesterday morning.

Among the Richmond delegates who were present yesterday were:

President elect George N. Rooker, past president; Frank Mero, J. A. McVittie, Henry Johnston, Jack Galvin, Virgil Fenner, Dr. U. S. Abbott, Carl Bierbauer, C. C. Kratzer, Fred La Moine, Roy Eagles, George Edwards, Clark Barger, Al Burdick, Walter Helms, Aubrey Wilson, Pete Rupp, Will Frazier, Ed. Hill, Will Richards and Mrs. Richard Spiersch

Many local members are also planning to attend today's session, which will open with a 7:30 a. m. breakfast for presidents, secretaries, past presidents and guests at the Hotel Oakland.

An open air concert by the Oakland Technical high school band will be given at the opening of the general conference at 9:30.

Between 12 and 2 p .m. election of a district governor will be held.

The afternoon session will be featured by an address by Edwin Robinson of Sheffield, England, a noted English orator, and a member of the Rotary International committee on finance.

The principal social function of the conference will be held tonight when the delegates will hold a garden party in the auditorium arena, in honor of District Governor and Mrs. Harvey B. Lyon.

New Plan For Alimony Dodgers

PORTLAND, Ore., May 8.—UP—Judge Gilbert of the Court of Domestic Relations here has announced a new plan to force divorced husbands to pay money for the support of their children as provided in divorce decrees granted by the court.

The new system is designed particularly for payment by men who leave the state and become in arrears. The amount to be paid by the ex-husband is automatically doubled if his payments are in arrears when he leaves the state or if he becomes in arrears after leaving the state.

Hundreds of Thousands In U. S. A. Demand New Kinds of Salts

Keeps you in good health all the time—skin clear and body free from fat.

Just think of it: these new, better and different salts were only introduced into America a few months ago-yet a host of intelligent Americans are healthier and happier because of their supreme goodness.

Kruschen Salts are the daily health dose of millions of people the world over-they are the largest selling medicinal salts in Great Britain.

One half teaspoon of Kruschen in a glass of hot water every morning gently but surely stimulates the liver, bowels and kidneys to healthy elimination.

But the six vitalizing and rejuvenating salts in Kruschen do more than cause regular elimination—the man or woman who takes them regularly need have little fear of poisons polluting the system which is the cause of many annoying and depressing ills.

One bottle of Kruschen Salts (lasts 4 weeks) costs but 85c and one bottle will prove of vast benefit to people who have constipation, headaches, indigestion, nervousness, rheumatism, depression, acidity and auto-intoxication.

Not only that but one bottle will bring about body activity-increase in energy, vigor and ambition, sparkling eyes and freedom from pimples and blemishes - millions know all this - you ought to know it.

A PRAYER FOR CHILDREN

(CHILDREN'S DAY, MAY 1, 1930)

MARGUERITE MOOERS MARSHALL

MAY every child be born to two persons who ardently desire it, who are eagerly willing to surround it with the love in which babies grow as plants grow in sunshine, who want a child because they think keeping house with a baby the greatest fun in the world, who are not too young to be careless about babies or too old to be unduly apprehensive, who want a baby for its humanly lovable self—not to carry on the family name, or to express a parental ego, or to serve as old age insurance.

May every child be born healthy and grow healthier, with its food and clothes and rest and fresh air provided according to the simple, rigid scientific formulas that involve drudging, incessantly repeated chores on the part of the mother, but that—applied without hasting, without rest—make sound, sturdy, rosy-cheeked boys and girls. May every child be equipped with the best of all parental inheritances: a body capable of resisting disease and strain, performing its natural functions with natural ease and sureness, taking health and strength as a matter of course.

May every child receive the very best education it is capable of using, the training which will develop to the utmost its natural instincts and powers—sharpening wits, making hands skilful, giving a weapon of economic defense against a competitive world, opening heart and eyes to the appreciation of beauty and wisdom. May every child be educated to earn a living and to enrich its life.

May every child have time, place, provision for play—for the muscle-stretching, blood-tingling outdoor games and sports; for the make-believe that exercises imagination and affection; for the comradely give-and-take, win-or-lose competition with playfellows; for the sheer joy of life that play gives to all young things.

May every child know a sane freedom—the utmost possible degree of individual liberty which is consonant with individual consideration for the rights of other individuals and with the laws of that society into which a child is growing. May every child be given so many interesting things to do that he has small time or energy left to beat against prohibitory don'ts.

May every child have opportunity and encouragement to love books, for reading is a lifelong resource available to all who seek it as furnishing and improvement for the mind, as a spur to feeling, as a talisman against anxiety and loneliness and pain.

May every child somewhere, somehow, learn to see and to take delight in the outdoor world—in the sea's changing sapphire and turquoise, in the pattern of moonlight upon tree-shadowed grass, in the colors and scents and delicate shapes of wild-flowers, in the wavy writing of hills against the sky. For a love of nature is the love which may serve and save when human love fails or its beloved object perishes.

May every child be delivered from snobbery and hypocrisy and the wisdom of its own conceit; from sloth and softness and the belief that enough money will always buy happiness; from stupidity and cheapness and a craven readiness to follow the multitude; from a lack of self-control and a weak will.

May every child grow up to work at something it likes to do, to love whether or not it be loved in return, to laugh even at itself.

A CONFESSION

To-day I am shamefaced.
A woman came to borrow butter,
I said: "Good morning, dear!"
And smiled quite casually.
I think I gave her lard—I am confused!
I reach for things haphazardly. I know
To-day is Wednesday and the hour is noon—
But yet somehow my mind is all awry!
You see, it was this way:
Last night I found a rose pressed in a book,
And a small note which read, "I'll love him till I die!"
Later I could not sleep. I tossed and turned—
To-day I go about shamefaced and pale—
Who is it I should love until I die?

A Theory and Not a Conditon

Most practical women are unable to understand why Miss Averil Bland, Canadian war nurse, should not be allowed to become a citizen of the United States simply because her religion keeps her from swearing to bear arms in defense of her country. Not by any conceivable American Government, in any conceivable future war, would even the most militant member of the D. A. R. be asked to shoulder a gun or wave a sword. The whole question is academic to the superlative degree. Why in the world is it raised whenever a conscientious feminine pacifist refuses to go through the motions of promising to do what she couldn't and wouldn't be allowed to do were she the most incandescent of feminine fire eaters? Here, it seems to us, is the perfect illustration of masculine logic-chopping, a reversal of Cleveland's famous line in that a theory, not a condition, confronts us!

PORTRAIT

Pale shadows play about his quiet eyes,
Cold, clever eyes that have seen half the world,
Quaint Paris streets and foreign flags unfurled,
Green-ivied towers and bright Italian skies.
I do not know how great he is, how wise,
How many times his pounding heart has hurled
Imperious command to lips that curled
For kisses from this all too willing prize.

Sphinxlike he is, only his hand is real,
For in its clasp my own grows damp and warm;
Words dance attendance on his thoughts, then steal
Away to hide their emptiness in form . . .
He is a muffled wind, a far-off peal
Of thunder deep . . . a strange and silent storm.

Oh, Go to Bed

By Eliot Kays Stone

"DAD, what's a brown study?"

"Oh, it's a deep study, a state of mental abstraction, or idle and purposeless musing."

"Why do they call it brown?"

"Because many years ago the word 'brown' was used to mean 'serious' or 'gloomy.'"

"Do you ever fall in a brown study?"

"Oh, yes, every now and then."

"Aren't you feeling blue when you get that way?"

"I suppose so."

"How can you be brown when you're blue?"

"Oh, go to bed."

A DISH A DAY

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

Only a few years ago raw carrots were served only in vegetarian restaurants and in the homes of diet faddists, but during the last year the use of raw carrots has become widespread. This is not so much due to the fact that they are recommended by dietitians as to the fact that they are crisp and tempting. Indeed many people who scorn cooked carrots enjoy the raw ones.

KAREN HOLLIS

Due to repeated requests, most restaurants now feature salads containing grated raw carrots, and many expert cooks favor sprinkling a little grated carrot on cream soups just before they are served.

Raw vegetable salads are particularly good to serve in the spring when the amount of meat consumed should be cut down. They provide bulk without a great deal of nourishment. They are particularly tempting in appearance.

Real vegetarians insist that uncooked green peas and beans are just as good for salads as raw carrots are, but some of us are slow in adopting radical changes in our diet. We have gone with them as far as adopting raw carrots, and we should be allowed to stop for a while without yielding further.

An excellent combination of raw vegetables for salad is this one:

SPRING SALAD

½ cup shredded cabbage
1 cup grated carrot
1 green pepper, chopped
8 radishes, sliced
½ cup celery, chopped
½ head iceberg lettuce

Cut the lettuce in thin slices and pack in ice while the rest of the salad is being prepared. With the improved choppers now on the market it is possible to shred the carrots, cabbage and peppers very fine, but if you haven't one of these, the carrots should be grated coarsely and the cabbage and celery chopped. Mix the shredded vegetables, add dressing and heap the mixture on slices of lettuce. Arrange the radishes around the edge. This recipe is enough for four to six servings. Plain mayonnaise can be used, or the following:

CREOLE DRESSING

1 teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons sugar
½ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon paprika
4 tablespoons lemon juice
½ cup salad oil
4 tablespoons catsup
2 tablespoons chopped pickle relish
1 tablespoon chopped onion

Mix ingredients in bowl and beat briskly with a fork for five minutes. Chill thoroughly and just before pouring on salad, beat well.

Modernizing the Home

Accessories May Express Individual Ideas

By Alma Zaiss

HERE THE WALL HANGING, PICTURE AND FIGURE IN THE MODERN SPIRIT ARE ON AMICABLE TERMS WITH ANTIQUE FURNITURE AND OTHER OBJECTS.

PROBLEM NO. 1

Dear Madam:

I wish to submit my floor plan for a new arrangement and also ask for suggestions concerning suitable accessories such as pictures, odd pieces, &c., for a man's room, which at present is practically bare of such things.

My furniture is massive but not of a special period. Would like a slightly modern suggestion if that would be compatible with what is in the room. The collection comprises a heavy library table, sofa, three book cases (sectional), a radio, highboy style, and very good looking, two large stuffed chairs, a foot stool, two occasional chairs and three small tables. The Oriental rugs are Asia Minor, shades of red and blue predominating. I presume the room also needs over curtains to make it complete, but would prefer not to bother with them over the summer. Your advice will be greatly appreciated. V. R. M.

Objects Modern and Not So New May Be Quite Congenial

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

WHEN in doubt as to whether a discreetly modern touch will be welcome in the conventional or period scheme which obtains in your room . . just remember to-day's illustration given in response to Mr. M's problem. For in a peculiarly satisfying way it answers yes to the question.

Happily, for the problem at hand, it also speaks in masculine language, setting forth for Mr. M's special benefit the appointments of another man's room where a beautiful chest and table—Italian Renaissance pieces—are enjoying their modern art companions with complete serenity and poise.

Over the massive table hangs a very modern silk panel in vivid blue-green and gold tones. At one side is a frankly modern flower painting, while the remaining objects of art upon the table are antiques.

Above the chest the Chinese painting suggests the older art, while below it a modern bronze flits so harmoniously into the ensemble that one scarcely feels the ages that separate its technique from that of its immediate neighbors.

For us the setting demonstrates a deep artistic truth perhaps more clearly than could a long and learned lecture. When harmonious color and texture, form and composition are gathered together, there is artistic completeness . . . regardless of the march of time or the difference in technique.

The illustration is shown both for its beauty and because it contains a number of excellent suggestions for Mr. M. Above his heavy library table he may well use a modern hanging similar to the one in the photograph, and instead of the chest, he may place the highboy radio against the side wall, with a picture above the radio, if the case is not too high.

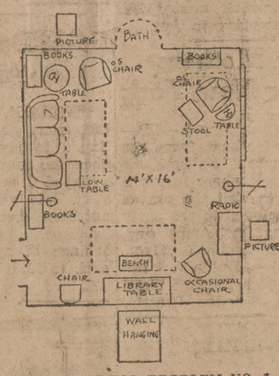

DIAGRAM FOR PROBLEM NO. 1

The diagram shows a good disposition of his furniture and provides for several additional pictures about the room. There could be a large modern picture or perhaps a group of modern woodblock prints or etchings above the sofa. A picture on the wall to the left of the door leading to the bath would balance the height of the bookcase on the right-hand wall, and a low table placed as indicated near the sofa would help to complete the group on that side of the room.

Mr. M. does not give information about the upholstery of the over-stuffed pieces, and so leaves us without a guide for complete color recommendations. If simple glass curtains of gold-colored silk made to draw on a traverse cord are used at the three windows it should not be necessary to think of more formal draperies until fall.

Wrought iron, bronze or pottery lamps with parchment or hide shades are always good for the man's room; certain of the modern metal lamps in conservative designs would also be attractive. And Mr. M. should follow his own preference in selecting the other decorative objects upon which the room depends for its personality. Let them express his favorite hobby or ambition . . . be it collecting prints or minerals, sculpture or merely sport trophies. The great idea is to seek fine examples of whatever it is that claims his deepest interest, and so bring into the room not only beauty and artistry, but companionship and character, too.

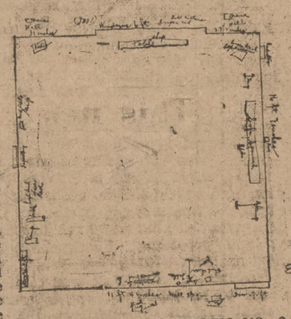
From the diagram, the photograph and these suggestions, we believe Mr. M. will receive sufficient encouragement to plan a very delightful room.

PROBLEM NO. 2

Miss Alma Zaiss:

Should appreciate it very much if you can suggest a better arrangement than shown on the floor plan inclosed. Mrs. G. C.

MRS. C. brings us a problem in arrangement, and a comparison of the two floor plans will show how great an improvement can be made in her room merely by shifting the furniture about.

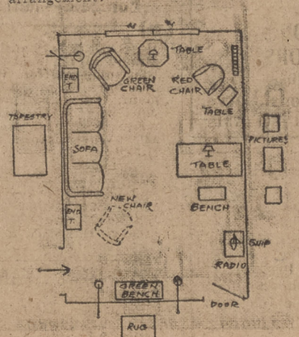


ORIGINAL PLAN—PROBLEM NO. 2.

Four standing lamps are really too many for a room of this size; therefore we suggest that two of the lamps be used as torcheres at either side of the Roman bench, which has been gold color suggested by the curtains. Lampshades should be very simple, preferably of honey-colored parchment; and doubtless the accessories placed near the entrance. The third can go in the corner beside the chair and the fourth should be eliminated. Also, three large pieces of fabric would prove too much for the walls of the average room; let us have one above the sofa and one above the bench near the entrance; the third may find a spot elsewhere in the home and allow the small pictures to be used in its place.

A third chair is needed to complete the sofa group, and another suggestion we might make concerns the colors used in the room. As it stands, there is an overabundance of red. This can be cured by replacing the red bench cushion with one of soft green, and when the new chair is bought it may repeat in deep, antique tones the include notes of green and the gleam of old brass.

When the original plan is compared with the new one, doesn't it make you wonder how many more homes are ambling along vaguely dissatisfied with quite good furniture which fails to please merely because of its poor arrangement?



CORRECTED DIAGRAM—PROBLEM NO. 2

A Household Suggestion

When your gas water-heater gets an accumulation of that gassy powder that flies (usually in the face) every time you open the door, apply the flat attachment that comes with your vacuum cleaner and is intended for use in crevices—it will draw the annoying substance all out without the unpleasant flying particles that are so annoying when a brush is used to remove them.

Paris Approves Vanilla Tones

Showings of Fall Fashions Indicate Popularity of Dark Greens and Grays and Beige

By Alice Maxwell Appo

PARIS.

THE color series shown in the openings of Agnes and Vionnet includes, for day wear, vanilla, beige, old gold, buttercup, gray, dark green, brown, navy blue alone and with white, black with white.

Vionnet has introduced many plain vanilla coats trimmed with brown astrakhan and beaver. Also two-piece belted suits of corduroy.

Evening colors, except for black and red, remain light—pink, pale blues, light greens and white being prominent.

Satin, chiffon, moire, georgette, romain, pink lace, silver lace, tulle, embroidered white net and marquisette vary formal fabrics.

Agnes is showing attractive day frocks of black satin and of navy moire. All her dress sleeves are trimmed below the elbow. Lace and lingerie details lighten day frocks.

Coat sleeves from Agnes are flared, the coats trimmed with caracul, astrakhan, beaver or fox.

Goupy uses day crepe, both plain and printed, and shows lace blouses with silk suits. Many evening gowns are spangled. Chiffon prints have small patterns.

The Housewife's Scrap Book

To blanch peanuts purchase them raw, cover with boiling water and let stand about three minutes, then drain; run cold water over them while they are in the colander and drain again thoroughly; you can then readily slip off the skins with the fingers; spread out the nuts on a towel and allow them to remain for at least twelve hours to become thoroughly dry.

Instead of throwing lemon skins into the garbage can, bake them in a moderate oven until they are crisp but not browned. When cold grate them and keep in a well-corked bottle for use in puddings, cakes, &c.

When ironing keep an atomizer filled with water near the ironing table for spraying dry spots in the clothes.

Hints for the Mover

Pack into a traveling bag the hammer, chisel, apron, soap, hand and dish towels, dishcloth, dusting cloths and whatever other articles you may require in unpacking. In a suitcase put foods, not forgetting salt, sugar and pepper, a few dishes, the necessary cutlery, doilies, napkins and all essentials for a day's meals. Slip the coffee and tea pot into a strong paper bag. Carry these three pieces of luggage and place them in a closet in the new home, where they may be found when needed.

If you use straw or excelsior to pack breakable articles, moisten it a bit, as this will cause it to swell and you will be able to wedge it in between the pieces and give more compactness.

Be sure and notify the gas and electric light company in due time so you will not be inconvenienced by lack of light and cooking facilities.

From a Dress to a Blouse

By Clarissa Moore

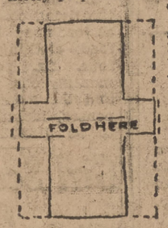
Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

Precautions to Be Taken in the Transformation of the Demoded Garment

IT'S ONE of the real joys of the new fashion era that the blouse is back. Of course, it never has been altogether out, but this season it is an essential part of any outfit that makes the least pretension to smartness.

So we may as well try our hand at making one, and having made one, it will be a comparatively simple matter to make others—as many as required or desired. For wear with the street tailleur of cloth or even of silk, it is well to have on hand two each—a sleeved blouse and a sleeveless one, in which case you are nicely prepared for either warmth or coolness.

For the worsted suit the straight line overblouse, though no novelty, remains distinctly good looking, and if you choose you can use for it some straight-line frock of silk or linen or other suitable material that you are not inclined otherwise to keep in your wardrobe.



FOR KIMONO SLEEVES

Cut the blouse section of the dress from the skirt, allowing sufficient length to turn in a deep hem which, if the material is the same on both sides, can be turned on the right and stitched on the machine, an eighth of an inch from the edge. The side seams you will have to rip in this case and, for the depth of your hem, reverse the seaming. Otherwise the seam comes on the wrong side.

If the dress which is being turned into a blouse happens to have a bateau neck, as so many of the one-piece frocks had, and you prefer a pointed neck, you will undoubtedly have to take the seam in a trifle at the shoulders, closing up the neck for perhaps an extra inch, or even more.

This will lift the blouse a little, so it should be attended to before the hem is made around the bottom. Start taking in these shoulder seams about a quarter of an inch from the sleeve seam, and take care that both the back and front edges are kept taut, and then, when sewed, are pressed flat. Before taking in, open the seam.

If you are making the blouse of new material, you will need twice the length plus the length of sleeves, unless there is width enough to cut the sleeves as well as the back and front, which can be done, even with the narrower materials by making the sleeves in two pieces. Most of the patterns you buy have two or more types of sleeves, and once you have a good blouse pattern with its various sleeves, you are equipped to make almost any type of blouse or waist.

The simplest form of sleeve, as the simplest form of blouse, and really a very satisfactory one is in kimono effect. To cut a kimono blouse from new material find the length desired from neck to hem, allowing from two to four inches for the latter. Double your material at the top length. Locate the centre from side to side, which point is to mark the centre of the neckline. If you want the neck V-shaped, slash each side of this neckline mark to a distance of three inches, no more, then down the centre front to the depth desired for the V.

FOR SEPARATE SLEEVES

Now you can slip the double fold of material, over your head and the sleeves, you will find, are an extension of the back and front sections, and the material below is to be cut up the side, leaving side seams, and beneath the arm, leaving a sleeve seam. If the material is double width the sleeves will have to be pieced, presumably at the elbow or the wrists.

If the material is narrow and you want long sleeves, you will add a piece, and this is called a cropped sleeve. Simply sew the piece of material to be added so that it forms a straight line across the arm when the blouse is on, taking care that the grain, or main threads of the material run in the same general direction as that of the upper sleeve part.

Stitch and press, and then the sleeve is ready to be fitted. Baste the seam and try on the garment before stitching the whole length as one continuous seam. A real kimono sleeve has no seam at the shoulder, and it is better not to have one, providing you can induce the sleeve and the under-arm seams to fit well without it. If it is necessary to have this seam it naturally forms a slight bias both front and back and infinite care must be taken not to stretch it.

GOLDEN DAWN

by MARC O'FARRELL

Copyright 1930, Warner Bros. Pictures Inc.
This story is based on Warner Bros. Vitaphone production of the play by Otto Harbach and Oscar Hammerstein II.

SYNOPSIS

Dawn, the lovely native girl of the British canteen in East Africa, is between two fires. The natives have ordained that she shall become the mystic bride of the black god Malunghu. And Shep Keyes, the brute-like whip man has his own evil designs on Dawn. Shep disperses the mob foregathered for the ceremony. Tom Allen, her sweetheart, is a prisoner of war at the hands of the Germans. He overhears a conversation that convinces him Dawn is not black, but as white as himself. When Shep whips cockney Pigeon Tom steps in and ends the torture. Shep and Tom are about to fight it out with fists, when Dawn intercedes. She is desperately in love with Tom.

INSTALLMENT EIGHT

When she found Dawn's room deserted, Mooda started forthwith for the convent. Ever since Shep had intimated that he would employ his knowledge of the girl's white ancestry to serve his ends Mooda had vague misgivings about the success of her own plans. Dawn's open contempt for Shep somehow reassured her, but the girl's fondness for Tom Allen upset that assurance. Her immediate opposition, she knew, were the whites.

At the convent Dawn had submitted her problem to Sister Hedwig. The nun, whatever her personal feelings in the matter, hesitated to alienate Dawn from her people. Even in the face of Dawn's evident eagerness to quit her own people

Dawn was desolate

Sister Hedwig insisted that she must have the consent of Mooda. Already dressed in the Red Cross uniform, Dawn was trying to muster the courage to seek out Mooda and ask to be spared the life she faced as Malunghu's bride. There was a peremptory knock, and Mooda was admitted.

"What you got on?" she demanded of Dawn.

"I've already learned so much at the convent, Mooda," explained Dawn falteringly, "they—they think I'd better be a Red Cross nurse."

"Take it off!" commanded Mooda. She turned upon the sisters and nurses, who were timidly pleading for Dawn. "You think you make native girl white," she stormed, "just 'cause she look white. My Dawn is African. She is to be goddess, bride of the great Malunghu. You go, leave me with my daughter."

With an unhappy glance at Dawn, whose silence signalized her obedience to Mooda's wishes, the nuns and nurses departed. As she went out Sister Hedwig passed Dawn and gave her arm a reassuring squeeze. Impulsively Dawn seized the nun's hand, as if in farewell. Mooda watched the tableau with obvious displeasure.

"Mooda love you as no man, white or black, can love," the native woman told Dawn when they were left alone together. "They only want to hurt you. Mooda only want to make you the happiest girl in Africa."

Dawn silently nodded that she understood and regretfully divested herself of the nurse's uniform.

"You see, M'toto," continued Mooda, "Mooda don't want man near to hurt you. Ever since you little baby Mooda hope for make you different. And now you can be grand Thabu—goddess. Don't you want make Mooda happy?"

"Mooda—Mooda, I'll do what you say," Dawn promised in a tired voice. "I will be goddess-bride."

After nightfall Tom appeared at the canteen. He was not altogether sure what had brought him there, but he knew that he longed for a sight of Dawn. He also felt that he might encounter Shep, in which event he doubtless would try to complete the business interrupted by Dawn earlier in the day. Failing to find Dawn, or even Mooda, Tom grew restless. None of the prisoners paid any heed to his nervous pacing, but Captain Eric noted it.

If Eric were privileged, at that moment, to command that which could give him his greatest pleasure, he would have been hard pressed to think of anything more pleasurable than the sight of Shep being beaten with his own whip. Also, Eric reflected, this pleasure would have an added fillip if the beating might be administered by his friend Tom.

But such reflections were not only idle but dangerous as well. Eric never forgot that the safety of the inhabitants of the settlement, black and white, was in his keeping. He knew, too, that the chief threat against the safety of these people was Shep. Until the arrival of re-enforcements Shep must be tolerated—yes, even deferred to. After that—Eric's grim smile augured rough times ahead for Shep. Nevertheless, the commander decided, it would work no harm to keep Shep and Tom apart.

"Tom, I've been looking for you," said Eric, interrupting Tom's excited pacing. Tom looked at him expectantly. "You must keep out of Shep's way, even if you can whip him."

Aware that Eric's sincere concern for his safety, as well as a wish to forestall any trouble, had prompted him thus to command him, Tom refused to enter into the informalities that Eric invited. He remained strictly a prisoner addressing a commissioned captro.

"I mean to try to whip him, sir," he stated.

Not at all discouraged, Eric continued to talk in an earnest friendly manner. "If you discredit him with the other blacks, I couldn't handle them. They outnumber the whites a hundred to one. It might mean a massacre."

"I'll do my best to remember your orders, sir," Tom agreed, "but keep him out of my way."

Eric all but exhausted the resources of his logic and eloquence in his attempt to convince Tom that any punishment Shep suffered, no matter how deserved, could not but serve as a boomerang. With Shep in power, the whites had him alone to fear; with Shep dethroned, the whites would find themselves opposed to the one hundred thousand unmanagable natives.

It eventually occurred to the captain that Tom's fierce determination to punish Shep was not born of the motives he had suspected. At first he attributed Tom's attitude to a natural desire, shared by all the men in the settlement, to whip Shep because he was what he was. Vengeance Captain Eric also considered, but found nothing to support such a motive. It was a crusade.

A crusade, yes, but for what, or, more specifically, for whom. Dawn! Tom was fighting for her. Shep, he and everybody else knew, had an unrequited passion for the girl, and it was true that Tom was more than ordinarily fond of her. Captain Eric didn't pause to deplore Tom's preference for a native girl. No—it was action that concerned Eric. And speedily he found solution for his problem.

"Here," he said, handing Tom a document, "is a map of the trail to the new camp. Copy it before you go and leave the original with me, Pigeon," he added with elaborate casualness, as Tom looked surprised, "knows the trail better than you. Get him and leave before the moon goes down."

"Why the hurry?" Tom was astonished. "I thought we weren't going until tomorrow."

Eric found himself both unwilling and unable to continue his clumsy deceit. "I want to get you out of here, Tom," he confessed, "before there's trouble with Shep."

With a smile Tom agreed to do as he was bidden. "All right, Captain," he said, "I'll go."

Spared the disagreeable duty of enforcing his command, Eric felt greatly relieved. "I can't spare any guard to take you," he apologized, "so give me your word of honor that you'll go at once to the camp and await the arrival of the other men tomorrow."

"I give you my word of honor, Eric," said Tom with all sincerity. The men gravely shook hands.

As Eric walked toward the canteen, Dawn and Mooda, returning from the convent, entered the clearing and continued across the veranda and entered the hut. Tom, hidden from them in the shadows, watched in silence. Pigeon, quite recovered from his lashing, approached. To him Tom communicated Eric's orders.

"Pack our kits," Tom instructed the Cockney, in tones usually employed by train announcers, "we're leaving by moonlight. And don't worry about the swamp."

Pigeon, who had started violently at Tom's order, caught the significance of the loud tones and smiled. "It ain't the swamp I'm worryin' about," he said, with a glance at the canteen. "It's the moonlight." Tom, smiling, seated himself at a table.

Presently, as if prearranged, Dawn joined him. She crossed over to Tom and quietly, almost timidly, said, "Mooda—she go to sleep for while."

"I knew you'd come out," Tom told her.

SIX KILLED IN PLANT BLAST

also was wrecked by the blast.

The fire was brought under control by night, but all rescuers and firemen were still fighting in atmosphere heavy with ammonia.

A considerable portion of those in the building were believed to be women. A high fence surrounds the Armour plant. Against this barrier were pressed relatives and friends. They were all tense. Some were weeping.

Fire Breaks Out

Fire which broke out after the explosion added horror to the scene. Firemen were able to quench the worst of the blaze, but the smouldering ruins hampered attempts to reach the victims.

Between twenty and twenty-five persons, of which at least 15 were women, were employed in the smokehouse at the time of the blast.

Firemen believed persons employed in the building could not escape the deadly fumes. The explosion brought all available fire fighting equipment to the scene. Police and ambulance crews aided in the rescue work. The men dug frantically in the ruins to remove the injured.

Bodies of four victims were recovered shortly before six o'clock. They were identified as those of Art Rogers, Gotlieb Weidemes, J. L. Munden and an unidentified woman.

American Legion Plans Reception To War Mothers

Announcement of a reception to War Mothers Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 was made at a meeting of Richmond Post of the American Legion in Memorial Hall last night.

The reception will be in charge of the Legion Auxiliary and members of the two organizations will present the Gold Star mothers, leaving soon for the pilgrimage to France, with a fountain pen each.

The Legion will also participate with other veteran organizations in a farewell to the Gold Star mothers at the Southern Pacific station on May 21, when they will leave for New York.

It was finally decided last evening to hold a barbecue, and Dan "Haap" Bradley was appointed as general chairman to make the arrangements. Bill Crangle will be in charge of the culinary artists.

The barbecue will be held at Cleary's Ranch, on the Franklin Canyon road, and will be open to members of the Legion, the Auxiliary and their friends.

Following the meeting last night which was under the direction of Commander Lowell R. Sears, a program of entertainment was presented and a banquet served. Joe Silva was head of the banquet committee.

ALAMEDA WILL GET NEW AIR FERRY

SAN FRANCISCO, May 8—UP—Announcement of a new service between its San Francisco and Oakland terminals and the Oakland and Alameda airports was made today by Air Ferries, Ltd.

The service will not as yet run on regular schedule, but will be available to anyone wishing to charter a plane for the trip at low cost.

This new service, it was stated, will enable persons desirous of connecting with transcontinental planes to cut the time of travel to the airports from 20 minutes to an hour.

The plane will make the trip to the Alameda airport in five minutes, and to the Oakland airport in ten minutes.

T. A. Maddux, and Curtis-Wright planes are available at Alameda, and planes of the Boeing, Western Air and West Coast lines at Oakland.

The amphibian Air Ferries, which alight with equal ease on land or water, will stop beside the transport planes, so that the passengers may step almost directly from one plane to another.

American Guard Plans Ladies Night

Plans for a Ladies' Night, to be held May 29, were made at a business meeting of the American Guard in Brotherhood hall last night.

The meeting will be open to all members of the Guard, their wives and members of the Guard auxiliary.

John Moore To Run For Judge At Election

practicing law in this city for a number of years.

He is a member of the Richmond chamber of commerce and the B. P. O. E.

Moore, in making the announcement of his candidacy yesterday, issued the following statement:

"The coming election in August will give to the voters of this city and Township Fifteen, their first opportunity of selecting a Justice of the Peace since the re-election in 1926 of the late Judge John Roth, who faithfully served them for many years.

"I shall be a candidate for this office. I would like to have the privilege of serving the people of Richmond, and, if elected, will faithfully perform the duties of the office to the best of my ability.

"I conceive the "service" that an elective officer owes to his fellow citizens to embrace a great deal more than the mere performance of the duties which the law requires of him. It includes the courteous performance of his task with a sincere desire on his part to give the necessary and proper time and effort to each matter that comes before him, no matter how small the amount or how trivial in nature this matter may be. Also, I believe that one who occupies a position of public trust and confidence by virtue of his election to office, should always be ready and willing to serve the community in many ways besides in an official capacity. He should not lose sight of the fact that when not performing the duties of his office, he should, as a private citizen, seize every opportunity which presents itself to advance the interests of his city, in this way doing his share to build Richmond, increase its population and prosperity, create jobs for those who need work, and in general promote the welfare of the city and his fellow citizens."

TROOPS SENT TO HINDU RIOTS

BOMBAY, India., May 9.—Friday—UP—Women and children were evacuated from Sholapur, 220 miles southeast of Bombay, last night after tragic riots in which six policemen were burned alive by a Hindu mob.

Authorities were confronted today with a situation of utmost gravity, and the crack Duke of Wellington's regiment of the British army was enroute to Sholapur from Ahmednagar, 125 miles to the northwest.

Reports of the rioting at Sholapur had been trickling in all during yesterday, and had become graver as the day went on.

Orders were given last night for the evacuation of all European women and children by special train, and immediate steps were taken to effect their removal, the refugees went in two sections. One was due at Poona early today, and the second at six a. m.

Greatest difficulty was encountered by the police in clearing a way to the railway station. Often they were forced to stand with their backs to the wall, holding the mob at bay.

A special train was sent to Scholapur to bring the Europeans out. The uncontrolled spirit of hatred and revolt burst with renewed fury after a lull, scores being counted among the casualties.

The first group of Europeans evacuated from Sholapur was expected to reach Poona at 2:30 a. m. and the second at six a. m.

The police, during the evacuation, were forced to fight their way to the railway station.

Quarterly Meets To Be Held By County DeMolays

Plans for an inter-county meet to be held by De Molays once every four months were discussed last night at the convention in Concord which was attended by 18 Richmond members.

Jesse M. Whitehead was the principal speaker at the meeting last night, talking on work of the organization. A large attendance was present.

PROHI LEAGUE SCORED BY SOLON

WASHINGTON, May 8.—UP — The anti-saloon league today was charged by Senator Blaine, republican of Wisconsin, with "silent" resistance to law in advising drys not to participate in certain state liquor referendums.

Seinator Blaine's allegation was made at the opening session of the lobby committee's inquiry into the league's methods, which, national superintendent Scott McBride, volunteered, included some lobbying.

Blaine, only wet member of the committee, indicated that today's questioning of McBride as to the activities of his organization was just a start. The big black-haired McBride was recalled for tomorrow, after he disclosed expenditures of $273,000 last year and engaged in verbal duels with Senator Blaine and chairman Caraway.

"Contest"

Early in the hearing the queitioning took an the aspect of a contest. An audience of prohis and anti-s applauded skillful replies, until Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, after a loud anti-prohibition applause, demanded the enthusiasts be suppressed. There was a guffaw from the audience when McBride said his league wrote no dry law bills — a statement which was challenged by the dry Caraway, who was in the house judiciary committee when the Volstead act was framed.

Former Representative Volstead, the author, was strangely unfamiliar with the act's provisions, Caraway said.

McBride, during Caraway's questioning, mentioned charges that the league "holds a club over prohibition" and judicial appointments, and denied them.

To Inspect Files

He said the league furnished briefs and dry law information, to prosecuting attorneys, but not to judges. He pictured the league as an advisory organization, and two or three times denied that it constituted any kind of a "super-government."

"You think it is harmful for the wets to take charge of legislation?" asked Caraway.

"Yes."

"Well, how about the drys?"

"We don't do it in the same way."

The committee decided to inspect the League's files at its former headquarters, Waterville, O., as well as those from headquarters near the capitol here.

Cross-Country Hop Completed By Women Pilots

OAKLAND, May 8.—UP— "A little air jaunt" entered into for a lark, that turned into a transcontinental hop, was described today by two New York women.

Mrs. L. A. Swirlbul and Miss Mildred McWhorter arrived here in a flying boat, piloted by James Hennessey and Bob Holmes, veteran Oakland pilots, after the first transcontinental airplane trip ever made by women in an amphibian plane.

The women packed up and left Curtiss field, Long Island, on an hour's notice on April 23, and arrived here after but 32 hours and 40 minutes actual flying time had elapsed.

Mrs. Swirbul, wife of an airplane manufacturer, said that she and her friend just happened to be at the field when the plane was preparing for the take-off. The daring women decided to make the first leg of the trip just for a lark, and then liking it so much, they stayed with the plane for the entire journey.

CARQUINEZ ARRIVALS

Theft Suspect Given Sentence

MARTINEZ, May 8.—Pleading guilty to a charge of stealing 3000 feet of copper wire from the Pacific Gas and Electric company, Hugh Menton, 26, was today sentenced to 90 days in the county jail by Justice of the Peace Frank Glass.

Menton is also said to have confessed to the theft of lead from the Giant Powder plant at Giant during the past several months, and the theft of equipment from the old Six Minute ferry wharf near Rodeo.

I. Hovgaard Visits In East

Irvin Hovgaard, manager of the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing company plants in Richmond, left recently for a six weeks visit to factories in Pittsburgh, New York, Baltimore, Atlanta and Louisville E. C. Wilson, assistant manager will take charge during Hivgaard's absence.

It was announced that with the Richmond plants now operating at 50 percent capacity, production would gradually be stepped up and operations are expected to increase.

BUY or BUILD A HOME . . . with the aid of a bank loan

President Hoover recently said: "The maintenance of home building at a high rate contributes greatly to active and stable business conditions. Of deeper importance, more families are enabled to achieve the independence, security and greater return from life which go with home ownership."

First mortgage loans on real estate made by this bank have helped thousands on the way to home ownership. Bank loans are universally accepted as the most desirable means of financing the purchase of a home on reasonable terms.

If you are planning to buy or build a home or if your present loan is on a basis that would make it eligible as a bank loan, the American Trust Company is ready to aid you with financial assistance, friendly counsel and hearty co-operation.

Come in and our officers will talk over your problem with you.
